

Coaching Staff Expectations

My personal philosophy of what makes a team successful is when coaches, players, and parents are all able to effectively work together so that the team is able to accomplish its goals. The best foundation for this is to have expectations for the season set before it begins, so that everyone knows what is expected of them.

As a coach of the Valley View High School Boys Tennis Team, I am agreeing to the following expectations as the face and leader of this program and its players:

#1 Expectation: Communication

- Be a positive role model for all of the athletes on and off the court.
- Be a good leader for the program.
- Do everything in my power to make this program as successful as possible.
- Communicate effectively to all players the information that they need to be successful throughout the season, on and off the court. This includes but is not limited to: team goals, reasoning behind coaching decisions, and player expectations.
- Communicate effectively to all parents the information that they need to support their athlete(s) to be successful throughout the season, on and off the court. This includes but is not limited to: schedule changes, required paperwork, and required payments.
- Communicate effectively to all coaches the information that they need to support our athletes to be successful throughout the season, on and off the court. This includes but is not limited to: practice plans, differences in philosophy, and all other details of the program.
- Communicate effectively with the school, athletic department, league, state, media outlets, and all other related entities the information that they need to support our athletes to be successful throughout the season, on and off the court. This includes but is not limited to: submitting paperwork, relaying match results, and updating the website.
- Follow all other rules set by governing entities of this program.

Acknowledge that I am human and that I make mistakes that can affect the expectations that I am responsible for in this program. When this happens I will do all in my power to fix, rectify, and correct mistakes that occurred.
